There is an expectation for students to be authors of their own work and to acknowledge when they use other authors' words or ideas when preparing their assignments and/or assessments.

Any examples of inappropriate use of sources or use of others' work in place of your own, will be penalised.

Failure to understand and follow protocol on academic conduct may ultimately result in a student being subjected to disciplinary actions or terminated from their course.

Academic misconduct can be broken down into a few broad categories below:

1.1. Plagiarism

1.1.1. Plagiarism involves the incorporation by a student in an assessment, material which is not their own in the sense that all or a substantial part of the work has been copied without any attempt at attribution or has been incorporated as if it is the student's own work when it is wholly or substantially the work of another person.

1.2. Academic Fraud

1.2.1. Falsification of data

1.2.4. Commission/ Contract Cheating

- Paying someone else to prepare coursework for you.

1.3. Cheating under examination

- Any form of communication with other students or external sources. Bringing unauthorised materials / technology into the examination.

This list is not exhaustive. Any other practice considered to effect in an unfair advantage for a student may be deemed as academic misconduct.

It is not always possible to find the source of the work, but a judgement may be made as to whether the work is original or not by using other evidence. The following are acceptable forms of evidence of plagiarism:

- Text from a known source
- Unusual writing structure
- Changes in font
